

CLAVE {k1lä'·ve} is a rhythm brought with the diaspora from the Yoruba, Kongo and other African peoples to the Spanish-colonized Caribbean.

CLAVE is “the keystone, the wedge-shaped stone placed at the top of an arch which locks all the other stones in place.”

CLAVE also means “key,” “code,” and “the foundation or heart of a matter.”

Finally, CLAVE can mean “getting screwed.”

With all these meanings in mind, we are pleased to announce CLAVE.

CLAVE explores the ways in which states, laws, markets, and other forces and discourses subject nationalized, gendered, sexualized, and racialized bodies. CLAVE also explores the many modes of resistance to power, symbolized by the steady beat of the CLAVE through colonialism, imperialism, and diaspora. In accordance with the goals and methods of LatCrit, Inc., CLAVE seeks to establish conversations that disrupt the traditional boundaries of nation, discipline, and academic hierarchy.

We welcome articles from academics in disciplines such as cultural studies, area studies, ethnic studies, history, political science, political theory, sociology, philosophy, anthropology, as well as “law proper.” We welcome submissions from organizers, activists, practitioners, artists and others.

Please send submissions to:
collaboration@clave.org

CLAVE publishes the following features from various disciplinary, interdisciplinary, and counterdisciplinary perspectives regarding subjection and subordination in the Americas and elsewhere:

1. Articles and essays.
2. Student-authored and other works in progress.
3. Book, film, or television reviews.
4. Interviews, round-table conversations, poetry, fiction, and visual media.
5. Rants and Appreciations on any topic – popular culture, current politics, or any other subject relevant to CLAVE’s mission – expressing edifying outrage or fan-like admiration.

Submissions for the above features, as well as proposals for special issues or symposia, are always welcomed. CLAVE is a refereed journal. Prior to submitting to CLAVE, please consult our SUBMISSION, REVIEW, AND PUBLICATION POLICIES at:

www.clave.org

CLAVE is a joint project of LatCrit, Inc., a progressive movement of legal scholars, and InterAmerican University of Puerto Rico School of Law.

Born in the United States, and heir to the critical race theory, feminist theory, and queer legal theory movements, Latino/a Critical Theory (“LatCrit”) examines the Latino/a legal subject as a project of diaspora, colonialism, racialization, and heteropatriarchy, and as a site for resistance to these forces as well.

As an intellectual movement, LatCrit theory is characterized by its anti-subordination and anti-essentialist ethics. As an organization, LatCrit, Inc, seeks to promote four basic aims of critical legal theory: (1) the production of critical and counterdisciplinary knowledge; (2) the promotion of democracy and equality; (3) the expansion and interconnection of antisubordination struggles; and (4) the cultivation of community and coalition among outsider scholars, lawyers, activists, and other policymakers. Toward these ends, LatCrit, Inc. sponsors conferences, colloquia, student programs on critical theory, and other insurgent interventions in the United States and elsewhere.

Counterdisciplinary Notes on Race, Power & the State

Clave

FOUNDING BOARD Judith Butler Ward Churchill
Drucilla Cornell Joe Feagin Peter Fitzpatrick
Evelyn Hu de-Hart Mary Romero Saskia Sassen
Boaventura de Sousa Santos Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak

MANAGING EDITORS Colin Crawford Tucker Culbertson
Angela Harris Margaret Montoya Yanira Reyes Francisco Valdes

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS Eduardo Bonilla-Silva
Wendy Brown Rosemary Coombe Denise de Silva
Patricia Fernandez-Kelly Inderpal Grewal Janet Halley
Vijay Prashad Sherene Razack

www.CLAVE.org

Counterdisciplinary Notes on Race, Power & the State

is a joint project of LatCrit, Inc. &
InterAmerican University of Puerto Rico
School of Law

SUBMISSIONS FOR FUTURE ISSUES ARE NOW BEING ACCEPTED

Our inaugural issue features work
by Peter Fitzpatrick, Angela Harris, Evelyn Hu de-Hart,
and others

Our FALL 2006 issue will consider recent crimes against humanity in LEBANON & NEW ORLEANS

Future issues will focus on:

the distinct racial politics of SETTLER SOCIETIES
among postcolonial states

the global variance & relevance of
BORDERS & BORDER THEORIES

AMIG@S:

We write to announce and invite your participation in CLAVE -- a journal on race and races,
law and politics, society and culture.

CLAVE engages and invites critical work on global justice and identity difference
from lawyers, humanists,
social scientists, artists, activists,
and others.

After reading about CLAVE,
if you would like to subscribe,
submit work, or otherwise
communicate or commune,
please contact us.

www.CLAVE.org

Counterdisciplinary Notes on Race, Power & the State